The success of the past events of the kind is the best advertisement of the present one—adv.About 50 young people gathered last evening at the Halloween party held in the Worthen hall. Dancing, marching, playing games and singing made up an evening of merry-making for the masked party. Music was furnished by Misses Cook and George. After about two hours of entertainment refreshments of cocoa and cake were served.
The party broke up at about 11:30."Sportsman," writing in the Boston Globe yesterday, has the following to say regarding some of the football men at Goddard this year: "There are several Greater Boston boys playing on the Goddard seminary (Barre, Vt.), eleven this fall—Mike Wood of Brookline is playing right tackle, 'Zeke' and 'Al' Thompson of Brookline are linemen, too, the former right guard and the latter left tackle. 'Buck' Freeman of Dorchester, who was with Boston college last year, is at left halfback."A Halloween party held last evening in the Conolly hall on Conolly street was more in keeping with the tradition than the usual party. The hall was neatly decorated with material appropriate to the event. The floor was cleared and put in shape to dance on.
About 40 enjoyed a long evening, dancing, singing and playing games. Ice cream, cake, coffee and sandwiches were served at 10:30. Della Morley took the prize for the best costume and Vincent Catto took a prize in the pie-eating contest."Oh! it's nice to get up in the morning, but it's nicer to lie in your bed," was the most popular air chanted by millions this morning, for to-day they refused to start out on their milk routes until 7 o'clock. This agreement was reached at a recent meeting of the Barre milkmen, from now on it will be useless for state's attorneys or detectives to quiz milkmen on conditions existing in any locality in the wee hours of the morning, for they no longer get up at midnight to begin milking, nor start out at 3 o'clock to distribute their goods. "Nevermore," cry they.
The government is condemning the cows and killing them off, leaving a comparatively few to supply the demands of the consumers. Many a stone-cutter and early morning riser drank coffee without milk this morning, for this change in the milkmen's schedule came unexpectedly to many housewives.A group of wind instrument players aroused the curiosity of many pedestrians on Main street last evening when they appeared on the street corners in freakish costumes, resembling catfish and displaying skill of musicians.
One rather stout figure in the center told the story, for it was unquestion-ably the figure of William Gilbertson, leader of the Gilbertson orchestra. He had gathered together many of his fellow bandmen of the Barre City band to make a little amusement, and entertainment on the main thoroughfare.After playing at various corners, the group filed into the Howland building, where his novelty orchestra was giving a Halloween ball. Seventy-five or more couples appeared in mask and appropriate costumes for the evening.

MONTPELIER

Funeral To-morrow of Ulysses H. Hammond, Aged 80.The funeral of Ulysses H. Hammond, who died Friday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. A. Stufflebean, on Barre street, will take place at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The deceased was a native of West Windsor, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hammond, born Feb. 18, 1839, so that he was past 80 years of age when he died. His early life was passed in his native town.
Later he was employed for a great many years on the Central Vermont railroad, running a sawing machine on a contract to cut the wood for the company. This was in the days when the engines were fired by wood, and the woodsheds were at nearly every station along the line. He served in the Civil war and was in many of the most battles. After giving up the railroad employment for many years he did a trucking business in Middlesex.
He is survived by his wife, who was Laura Winn of West Windsor, and the daughter, with whom they lived in this city. Fred Winn of Montpelier was a nephew of the deceased and lived with him for many years. He also leaves several relatives in the southern part of the state.Vesey DeLue, aged 74 years, died during the night at Heaton hospital, where he was taken earlier in the week because he was suffering with heart trouble. He was a native of St. Johns, N. B., and early in life learned the vocation of a sail and sailing maker.
He was, in the days of his best health, able for the occasion, while about the city of the country. He conducted a business for himself for many years.
The last work he did was during the early part of the war, when he worked on a large contract for the government.
He came here recently to live. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna DeLue, and a stepson, Edgar L. Turner, manager of the DeLue company in Montpelier. The body will be taken to Evrett for funeral and burial.The Community club gave a dance in the city hall Friday evening as a part of the Halloween celebration in Montpelier. The hall was filled with dancing couples until after midnight. Landi's orchestra furnished music. The hall was very tastefully decorated with crepe paper and other ornamentalities suitable for the occasion, while about the electric lights were either owl's heads or pumpkins. Pies, doughnuts, apples and other viands suitable for the occasion were served. It was a very pretty affair, and the committee in charge is entitled to much credit for the entertainment.The deed of five acres of land from Thomas Neill to the state of Vermont has been accepted by S. B. Bates, commissioner of highways, upon the authorization which was recently given that department to buy property for a warehouse and other buildings in which to house the auto trucks and other property, the consideration being $1000.
Work has already been commenced on the job, Leonard Hood now residing at 101 North Main street, is the contractor, while a Mr. Brown of Middlebury will arrive Monday to put up some buildings. It is proposed to construct a hollow square. On one side of the square will be a dwelling house, machine shop and garage. On the other three sides will be stalls for storage of the trucks, some 60 of them. Mr. Bates looked over several sites near Montpelier, but this was the best site that he could secure and the purchase was made. Concrete floors will be installed while the court in the center will be of stone chips and gravel. Mr. and Mrs. L. Laird will have to fly two sets of banners from their automobile, for Mr. Laird is a graduate of Dartmouth, while his son is a member of the Colgate team.Charles Drury of the Boston Herald, George Richards of the Post, and George McKinnon of the American, who have been "covering" the Long trial for their papers, left on the night train for Brattleboro, where they arrived at 5 o'clock this morning, and are in Dover to-day for a bear hunt, which they are "covering." Edward Metcalf, county game warden, is to be in charge of their movements. He will be recalled as a former newspaper man in Barre in the days of the Telegram. Before going away, the above men sent a message to the district manager of the Western Union Telegraph company, showing their appreciation of the service they have enjoyed in Montpelier, complimenting Manager Cary, who has supervised the transmission of over 250,000 words in the 24 days they have been here.The condition of Harold Goodridge of Plainfield in Heaton hospital is improving. He suffered wounds in both hands Thursday while hunting. It appears that he leaned his gun against a log and that he placed both hands over the muzzle and that in some manner the gun discharged with the result that the index finger of the right hand was blown off and several bones crushed in the hand; also the flesh of the left hand was badly lacerated.
